All users are to have a valid Fermilab ID badge. The Laboratory issues such ID badges to users, defined as visiting scientists, graduate students or technical support staff affiliated with institutions participating in Fermilab experiments and who have signed the Non-Proprietary User Agreement. The spokesperson for the applicant's Fermilab experiment approves the request electronically. To obtain a Fermilab user's ID, the applicant must have current medical insurance coverage. However, if a user's insurance coverage or institutional affiliation lapses, Fermilab considers the ID badge no longer valid.
